Happy New Year!

The Center for International Programs would like to send you all a warm welcome back to HSU! It is so wonderful to see all of your happy smiles return. We would also like to give a big welcome to those who are just starting their journey here and look forward to learning more about you.

Last semester was filled with many exciting adventures and we are ready to see what the start of the new year will bring. Please stop by the office to say hello. We would love to hear about all of the exciting things that you were able to do over the winter break!

Welcome Back!

The International Cultural Festival is quickly approaching! In 1986, this event began as a community style potluck, with spontaneous performances from whomever wished to share. Now, this event has grown to be a unique experience of cultural sharing, fun, and excitement.

This year we are looking forward to another exciting event and would love to have your help to make it even better. There are many ways that you may be involved:

- Represent a Country: As part of the event, there are informative tables that present information about different countries. This would be a wonderful opportunity to share your culture, or represent a country of your choice!

- Perform: As part of this event, there are performances of different kinds (music, dance, acrobatic and more). You are welcome to share a performance talent from your country!

- Volunteer: If you would like to participate from behind the scenes, we would love to have your help. Volunteers are needed to help set up for the event, organize performers, decorate and more.

Please contact Tafya Nailatika (our Event Coordinator Intern), or Jenn Soderfelt at the Center for International Programs office for more information. Otherwise, we will be sending more information regarding the event very soon.

Rogue Waves

Here in Arcata, we are lucky enough to be within minutes of some of the most gorgeous beaches the Pacific Northwest has to offer. We hope that while you’re here at Humboldt State, you take the time to enjoy these beaches as much as possible! When enjoying yourself at the beach, however, here is one important thing to keep in mind: rogue waves.

Rogue waves, also known as sneaker waves, are rare but it is because of their rarity that they pose serious danger to those who encounter them. According to the National Ocean Service, or NOAA and earthsky.org, rogue waves reach heights that are over twice as large as the waves surrounding them, sometimes measuring up to 100 feet. They often travel in different directions from the waves and winds around them. It is not yet clear why rogue waves occur, but some scientists think that it is due to swells, or groups of waves, traveling in different directions and colliding, creating much larger waves.

While they are rare, rogue waves are known to affect beaches in Humboldt County. In fact, on Thursday January 29, 2015, NOAA forecasted the occurrence of rogue waves during the day.

What can one do to be cautious against rogue waves?

- Be prepared! NOAA offers a weather app for Androids, called “NOAA Weather Free,” which warns you when rogue waves are expected in your area.
- When at the beach, watch the ocean for some time before going in the water, giving yourself the chance to notice any abnormal patterns in the swells. Troy Nicolini, who works for the Eureka Office of National Weather Service, says in an article with the North Coast Journal that one should wait at least 30 minutes before entering the water, or at least be aware of the conditions that often prompt rogue waves.

Enjoy your time at Humboldt County’s lovely beaches, and stay safe!
HSU and the Humboldt County community offer a wide variety of activities every week! While you’re here, we recommend that you take advantage of the many events that occur here on campus and within the community. Here are some resources you can refer to when looking for things to do.

Humboldt State Now: The university’s online publication that gives you updates on many of our upcoming events. Check your emails every week for a list of some upcoming events, or check out the website for more information on upcoming events on campus. You can visit the page here: http://now.humboldt.edu/.

Clubs & Activities: There are over 180 clubs on campus and plenty of variety to choose from! HSU Clubs & Activities offers everything from beach volleyball to juggling.
