Earth Education International

Costa Rica

Condensed Spring Semester in

Sustainable Global Stewardship

Mid-February through Mid-April Annually

Open to Students from ANY Campus

Academics & Coursework
- Interdisciplinary coursework applicable to all majors
- Undergraduate or graduate credit available
- English instruction, no Spanish required
- 12-15 units of transfer credit from Humboldt State University:
  - Society & Sustainability (3 cr.)
  - Environmental Sustainability & Field Planning (3 cr.)
  - Costa Rican Culture Immersion (3 cr.)
  - Elementary or Intermediate Spanish (3 cr.)
  - Directed Study (3 cr., optional by special arrangement)

Field Study & Volunteer Work
- Day-long and multiple-day field trips to appropriate sites in Costa Rica (e.g., sustainable businesses, community conservation sites, renewable energy projects, private reserves, national parks, volcanoes, community eco-tourism projects).
- An extended field excursion in Southwestern Nicaragua including extensive field study, cultural events, and volunteer work.
- Volunteer service-learning work at selected field study sites.
- Possible sites include: Organic agriculture, sustainable businesses, environmental education, social work, environmental conservation, ecotourism, and housing construction for low-income families.

Comprehensive Program Fee Includes
- Twelve (12) units of academic credit from Humboldt State University
- Homestay costs while in San Ramón (lodging & three meals per day)
- Minimum required travel health insurance (with deductible)
- Use of the facilities at the host university in San Ramón
- Field site entrance fees & associated costs
- In-country program travel & lodging
- Various other program activities

For More Information
For current cost & other details: www.EarthEdIntl.org/Spring.htm
To contact us: info@EarthEdIntl.org

Application deadline: November 1st annually